PRISON PEEP SHOW!

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. — The long arm of the law has reached out and pulled the curtain on a free peep show here provided by the wives and girlfriends of jail prisoners.

The women have gathered in the parking lots around the jail for nearly five years, flashing their breasts to their captive audience. They've even been known to lift their skirts.

Wives & girlfriends of cons bare their boobs & lift skirts outside Wisconsin jail . . .

"That caused a whole lot of hooting and hollering in the cell blocks as you might expect," Sheriff Ron Cramer said. "It makes our jail guards nervous when the inmates get riled up."

Most of the X-rated shows happened at night, but Sheriff Cramer said the women used sign language and chalk on the paved lots to communicate with their loved ones in the daytime.

"They used sign language to signal when they were going to smuggle in dope or other contraband," the sheriff said. "That worried us as much as the peep shows."

So Sheriff Cramer is spending $14,000 to install lexan glass in the 288 jail windows. No one will be able to see in or out through the new windows.

"The lexan looks up the glass but allows the sunlight to shine through," he added. "We've done the windows on the west side without any hassles.

"But the cons and their families are ingenious. They'll probably figure out another way to communicate."

. . . but sheriff pulls curtain on X-rated performances!

Teen sealed newborn in 3-pound coffee can — & hid it under the sink, cops say!

TUCSON, Ariz. — A teenage mom is accused of drowning her newborn baby in a toilet and stuffing the infant's remains in a big coffee can.

Marianne Biancuzzo was charged with murder and child abuse after her 15-year-old brother found the 3-pound coffee can containing its deadly secret under the bathroom sink.

"We theorize that she didn't want to be bothered with having a baby," Police Lt. Richard Middleton said.

But the young mother, through her lawyer Jesse Smith, said she didn't know for sure she was pregnant and believed the baby was born dead.

A preliminary autopsy report showed the baby died of drowning, suffocation or a combination of both, cops said.

The dead baby had a plastic bag over its head and was wrapped in a plaid flannel

DOES YOUR MATE STILL LOVE YOU?

Is your mate still in love with you? Take this easy 10-question quiz and find out.

It was especially designed for you by Dr. Herbert Hoffman, a leading psychologist.

Answer each question "yes" or "no" and then check the scoring and analysis at the end of the quiz. Don't peek at the scoring chart until you've finished the entire quiz.

1. Does your partner sometimes surprise you with a "no occasion" gift?
2. When you've been out of sorts, does your mate call during the day to check on how you're feeling?
3. Does your mate initiate an occasional cuddle or long session?
4. When your partner's in the mood for love and you're not, does he or she generally bow to your wishes gracefully?
5. Does your mate make an effort to correct habits or behavior that displease you?
6. Is your partner quick to forgive you when you've been hateful?
7. Is your mate respectful of your needs for privacy?
8. Does your partner sometimes complain that you don't spend enough time together?
9. When you become interested in something, does your partner make a special effort to share your interest?
10. When you aren't feeling well, does your mate volunteer to take over some of your chores?

♥♥♥♥♥♥♥♥

SCORING: Give yourself one point for each "yes" answer. Analysis:

8 to 10 points: Congratulations! Your mate is so loving, your life must seem like one long honeymoon.

5 to 7 points: Have no concern. Your partner loves you deeply, but may not always show it.

4 points or less: Perhaps your mate would love you more intensely if you were more lovable. Review all the above questions and act on them. For example, call your partner at work when he or she is out of sorts, surprise your mate with an occasional "no occasion" gift, and don't brood or hold a grudge when your partner's hurt your feelings. Do all the things you'd like your mate to do for you, and he or she is bound to love you all the more.

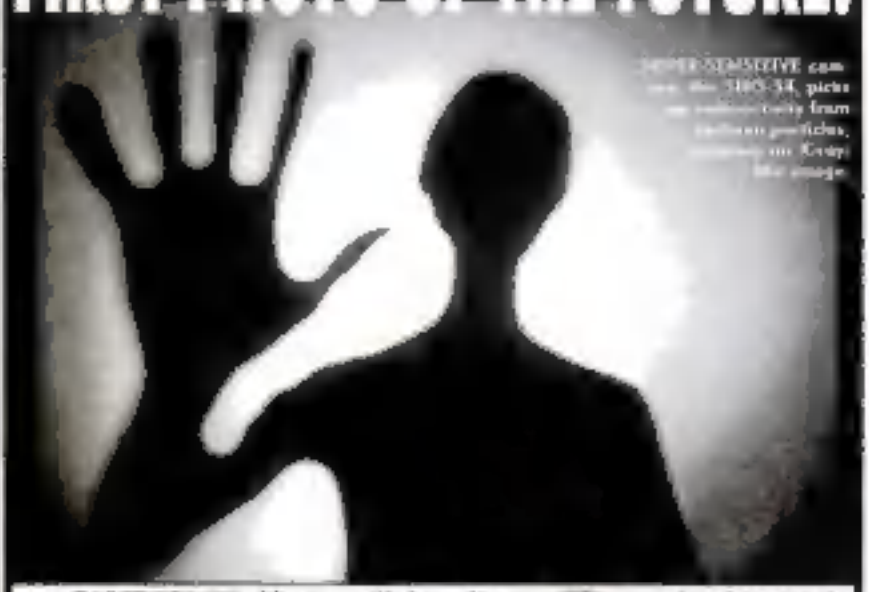
HIGH-TECH CAMERA TAKES FIRST PHOTO OF THE FUTURE!



CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — University scientists say they have used high-tech equipment to take the first photograph of the future!

The remarkable image, captured by a camera known as the SHO-34, shows what appears to be a man-like being with an elongated neck, bulbous head and long spindly fingers, waving in greeting.

"This may be our first glimpse of how humans will look in the future as the result of evolution," declared Dr. Gary Anerson, a physicist involved in the project.

To fully comprehend the technology underlying the SHO-34 would require a thorough understanding of quantum mechanics far beyond the reach of most layman.

"Simply put, it's based on the theory that certain particles known as tachyons travel faster than the speed of light, causing them to travel backward in time," explained the expert.

By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

PHYSICIST Dr. Gary Anerson.

"These particles give off radioactivity, which the SHO-34 picks up. The result is an image that looks something like an X-ray."

The SHO-34 is the end product of a 15-year project conducted by a small group of researchers from M.I.T. and Harvard, and funded by a major computer software firm.

The device, which looks like a tremendous telescope, weighs more than a ton and costs upward of $30 million to develop and construct.

The camera has been built into the ground, where it is designed to remain for an incredible 10,000 years.

"We believe that the image the SHO-34 picked up is that of a descendant of a present day human, living in America about 8,000 years from now. The individual stood in front of the camera and that image flowed, in reverse time, back to December 1997," said the scientist.

"The pose indicates the person may well have understood the purpose of the camera and was giving a sign of encouragement to what to him must be very primitive humans."

Dr. Anerson says the expensive camera is worth every penny.

"Using this device, we hope to learn more about what the future of our planet will be like."

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Dazzling amputee Angela England awoke to find a knife-wielding creep crawling into bed with her, so the courageous lady grabbed the only weapon at hand — and beat the bum senseless with her artificial leg!

"The guy had a knife and could have cut my throat, but I wasn't going to let him rape me no matter what," teary-eyed Angela later told reporters.

"I fumbled around for something to hit him with and suddenly I had my leg in my hand. I whacked him as hard as I could across the back of the head and the knife went flying, so then I really started whaling away at him.

"I hit him in the face and I hit him on the head and I hit him in the groin — anyplace I could get at him.

"The next thing I knew, the clown was lying in a heap on the floor, so dazed he couldn't move."

Raoul Angela, 23, called the cops, who arrested skinny ex-con Claude Ellarde on charges of assault, attempted rape and breaking and entering.

"When we arrived, sleazy Claude was lying there holding his head and moaning, and this little wiry-legged gal was standing over him, daring him to move," recalled Brussels, Belgium, police patrolman Bernard Nadeau.

"But he wasn't going anywhere without help. His nose was busted, his head was split wide open and four or five of his teeth were scattered around the room. She had absolutely beaten him to a pulp.

Jungle tribe's hair and skin never gets wet!

Members of the Tacquiera tribe in remote Brazil have an unusual physical trait that has scientists baffled — their skin and hair never get wet!

"These people can stand in a pouring rain and remain as dry as a bone," French physician Dr. Jacques Tolborne says. "Water slides right off them like they are covered with grease.

"This is a startling example of evolution at work," he said. "After generations of constant wetness, their skin has developed its own natural way to stay dry — even if you throw a bucket of water on them. And, for the sake of science, I have done just that many times."

Here's the most humiliating thing that can happen to a squirrel!

Squirrels have been known to get their tails knotted together — and they end up stuck to each other in clusters!

Five squirrels with their tails braided together were found last July under a tree in Brantford, Ontario. They were successfully separated by vets, according to reports.

But six tail-tied squirrels found in a hedge in Easton, Pennsylvania, in 1989 weren't so lucky. Vets were unable to disentangle them and the animals had to be destroyed.

COUNTRY DANCE TEACHERS WORE COWBOY BOOTS, SPURS — AND NOTHING ELSE, SAY COPS

PALM SHORES, Fla. — When the Silver Spurs Dance Studio opened in this tiny hamlet in 1985, nobody told the town the curvy dance instructors would wear cowboy boots, spurs — and nothing else.

"They had three or four women in there teaching the Achy Breaky Heart and the Watermelon Crawl in their birthday suits," said one town official. "Business was good."

The unique teaching style quickly caught the eye of folks who run this quiet, family oriented town of 8M people.

"They closed the place down," said Palm Shores Town Attorney Michael Kahn. "I guess they thought they could come in here and do anything they wanted," he added.

"But they ran into a lawman's oath."

The town yanked the studio's license, claiming the business violated a 1981 ordinance by jeopardizing the town's health, safety and welfare. Owners of the nude dance studio have asked a federal judge to override the ordinance and allow them to reopen.

U.S. Magistrate David Baker hasn't ruled yet, but he said the ordinance is too vague and gives town leaders too much power. "Right now the town has a right to pull a license on anybody it wants to put out of business," Judge Baker warned. "That's too broad."

Attorney Kahn said the town isn't targeting a particular type of business, but eliminating undesirable elements.

"They jeopardized the town's welfare by conducting tryout auditions," Kahn explained.

"They didn't tell the town their dance teachers would be naked as jaybirds."

CURVY CUTIES were put out of business by officials in the small town.

Men were lined up to learn the Achy Breaky Heart & Watermelon Crawl in tiny Florida town!

HOLLYWOOD'S ANSWER GIRL

Q I was delighted to see ex-Beverly Hillbillies child Lisbeth Bilyeu, Trini Lopez, show up on NBC's Another as a bloodthirsty serial killer. How does she feel about the part?

— Kay B., Santa Rosa, Calif.

A The petite princess turned-TV star says the recurring role is the best part she's landed since she quit doing A-rated movies 10 years ago — but all in all the slasher genre gives her the willies.

"I'm really afraid of scary stuff and this show gives me the creeps," chick-on-hearted Tracy says. "I swear, I still sleep with a night light!"

Q I know that singer Michael Bolton cut off his trademark long blond hair. But is it true that his mane has been donated to the Smithsonian Museum in Washington, D.C.?

— Deb S., Marlow, Ill.

A The crooner did have his hair shorn off to play a lawyer in an upcoming flick — but he's still heading under the proverbial creature. After the head cut, the singer's hair was swept off the floor and put in a plastic bag. Bolton's severed locks are being held in an undisclosed location. His spokesman said: "I thought he cut it, but it's not quite ready to let go of it."

LOCKED-UP LOCKS: Michael Bolton

Q I've heard that singer Celine Dion is a shopaholic. Is it really true, though, that her closet is stuffed with a staggering number of shoes?

— Jane R., Prudenville, Mass.

A Absolutely! The Canadian songbird has a whopping 1,500 pairs of shoes. Mad loving Celine spends through many boring designer shoe and clothes in the fashion capitals of the world, but even making time shop for outfits on the road to feed her fetish, she explains, adding that she's the lowest she's ever been in "I have a something like 10 pairs."

Q Like many other red-blooded American males, I'm head over heels to fall with teen blonde Tiffany Darwish. Jenny McCarthy.

Two questions: One: Is it true that back in high school she had a wild gay fling with another girl? And two, did she and Pamela Lee recently pose nude together?

— Bert T., Montreal, Mass.

A Jenny Jenny didn't experiment with same-sex swinging back in high school — but she did spread a rumor around school that ANOTHER girl was a lesbian she admits in her new book, Jenny.

As for Baywatch babe Pam, the two were briefly featured in a raging wave of Pamela, but they didn't pose together and it's definitely they ever will.

That's because Dion has said on her feline bloodie ever since the former TV lifeguard made catty comments about her at the Grammy Awards show.

SHOES-AHOLIC: Celine Dion

Q I think Chris Rock is one of the funniest young comedians around. He also seems like he'd be smart enough not to let fame go to his head. Am I right?

— Steve L., Palo Alto, Calif.

A Not really. Chris — who landed a gig on TV's Saturday Night Live at the tender age of 24 back in 1990 — admits that when he first hit it big he went crazy, blowing money on cars and women. "When I was on Saturday Night Live, I was the worst," he said in an interview.

"I loved women. I had no boundaries. I just did what I wanted to do and got mad that people would go, 'Why is she talking to him?' and guys would fight me."

Q Did representative script Charlton Heston really come out saying that the Second Amendment — which guarantees the right to own a gun — outranks the First Amendment, which guarantees freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion?

A Yep, the big-screen Moses — who was recently named new president of the National Rifle Association — insists that the right to keep plenty of firepower in our homes is a God-given liberty more important than any other enshrined in the Constitution.

"The Second Amendment must be considered more essential than the First Amendment," Heston told stunned reporters at a lunchtime speech at the National Press Club.

The right wing star, 72, also insisted that the "controlling" media uses the First Amendment to Buying shoes is a REAL problem for Pittsburgh divorcee!

WOMAN HAS TWO LEFT FEET

By BEATRICE DEXTER

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — File clerk Betty Castere is one heck of a dancer — even though she was born with two left feet!

The 31-year-old divorcee is perfectly normal in most ways, but having a left foot attached to her right ankle definitely makes her one of a kind.

Naturally the poor gal has an awful time buying shoes. Other than that, though, she never lets being different interfere with her life.

"Sometimes people stare and point, but I just ignore them," says the mother of two. "And of course when I go to the beach or in a swim club, then I have some problems.

"But most of the time, people don't notice that there's anything different about me. They look at my face, not my feet."

Betty usually wears pants or long skirts to draw attention away from her two left footsies. And she tries to find shoes that disguise the abnormality.

But as her day-to-day activities show, she makes no concessions to the defect, diving into sports and other pastimes.

"I'm crazy about dancing," the fun-loving lady told reporters. "And I'm great at tennis. Having two left feet doesn't slow me down one bit.

"The only thing that irks me a bit is having to buy two pairs of shoes so I can get two lefties out of them."

Betty's kids, both in grade school, were born perfectly normal, so she's convinced her problem isn't hereditary. She figures it was a fluke in her genetic makeup that caused her bizarre affliction.

"Whatever did it, I don't mind my feet, really," she says. "I try not to dwell on what went wrong with my body — I try to think about how great the rest of me is."

HER ODD FEET don't keep Betty Castere from leading an active life.

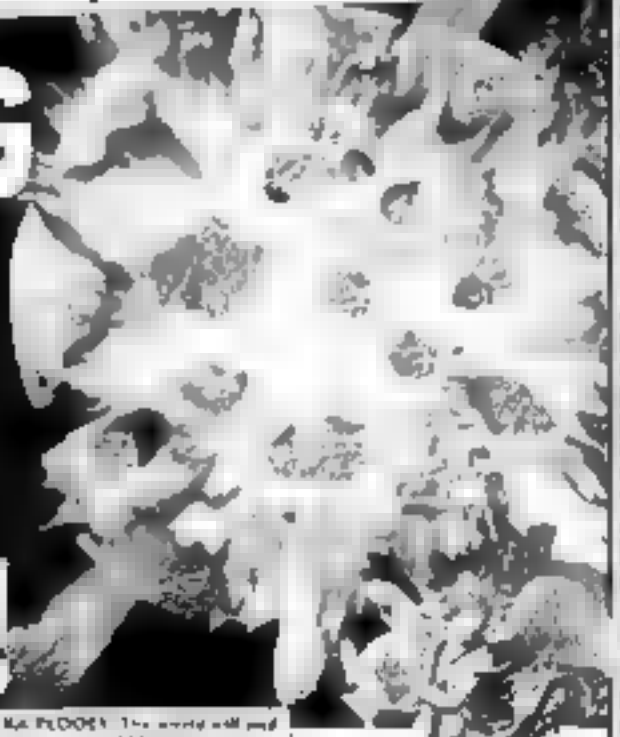
MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA MY AMERICA

'Swing low, sweet chariot,' says Ed!

I'M GETTING READY FOR THE END OF THE WORLD!



But nuclear bombs, a hungry lion gnawing on a shouting Christian over the way the blind liberals are bitching and moaning about the latest USA TODAY/CNN survey of America's religious beliefs.

A recent USA TODAY/CNN Gallup Poll stunned the nation by showing that an incredible 90 percent of Americans believe in Heaven. 79 percent believe in miracles — and a whopping 77 percent are certain that angels exist, by gum.

But wait. That 77 percent believe in reincarnation and 38 percent of all Americans believe you can contact the dead.

And guess who's crying bloody murder over these electrifying findings.

The stupid bleeding heart liberals, that's who.

"This is just another plot by Republicans and the dumb Americans who vote for them to force prayer back into our public schools," sniffed a lesbian atheist spokeswoman for the National Organization for Women.

But the real icing on the cake for pointy-headed liberals was a Harris poll survey showing that 61 percent — or 96 million Americans believe Jesus Christ will return to Earth.

Every four percent believe there will be a final battle at Armageddon between the forces of good and evil.

USA TODAY CNN Gallup Poll says that faith in God is on the rise

KA-BOOM! The world will end — the year 2000, Ed believes

Well, when you're counting up the final believers, things might look a little grim. I'm certain that the entire population of Great Britain is going to be there at the end of time.

Because by the time the U.K. has been declared a Nuclear Free Zone, there won't be anybody left.

What's amazing, I've learned, is that the fastest growth in church attendance on Sunday mornings is among teenagers. The kids want to believe.

So that's it, so that wrapped up my feeling on Maker. Gratitude overwhelms me that the world is not going to be destroyed by the most powerful nuclear bomb in the world. And I think you and I both know that God will win on any side in that one.

But I am concerned about missing was the whole Anger plan to bring on the battle that will end it all. You know what I mean.

So I'll be watching my enemy friends like a hawk for the next few years. And the minute one of them steps out of line, that's it. I have hell in mind here on Earth. I'll tell you that — because you and I both know there's a lot hotter than the hell they'll face if they don't shape up before the final curtain comes down.

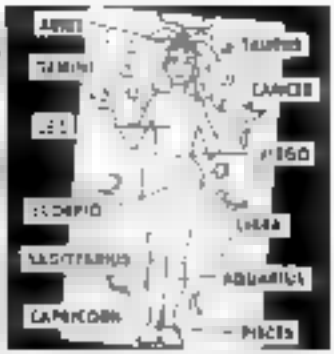
ASTROLOGY AND HEALTH LINKED BY NEW HARVARD MEDICAL SCHOOL STUDY!



CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Surprised doctors at Harvard University have actually confirmed what astrologers have been saying for hundreds of years: There is a definite link between your star sign and your health!

A five-year study involving 3,291 subjects reveals a casual relationship between your astrological sign determines the ailments you're likely to be plagued with. But on the positive side, each sign also has its own areas of strength.

Here, in abbreviated form, are the study's findings, along with the researchers' advice about how to build on your physical strengths and guard against the weaknesses associated with your signs.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Aries rules the head, brain and eyes. This fire sign is full of energy and so it's rare to find an obese Aries. But the willful Aries can be prone to irritability and nagging headaches. Also, your health could suffer if you don't occasionally slow down. The key to living as a healthy Aries is to channel all your competitive energy productively and take time out every once in a while.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Taurians are affectionately called the dumplings of the universe, so you may think the stomach rules this sign. But no. Taurus is associated with the tongue, neck and vocal cords. Sore throats could plague you. Taurus is also concerned with the thyroid gland, which controls the metabolism. The pursuits of the zodiac, Taurians with excess fat gain or weight gain. A low fat diet and exercise are vital.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20)

Fingers, hands, arms, shoulders, lungs and the nervous system are associated with Geminis. They live by their wits and have a highly aqueous mind. Geminis hate sleeping still and being ill is too boring - they find it hard to stay in bed for very long. For this reason, the always active twins may be plagued with a cold that won't go away. But a dose of the real flu doesn't have to slow them down. Use simple breathing exercises to relax, stay in bed and it'll be sooner to restore your health and maintain your high energy level.

CANCER (June 21 - July 22)

Cancer rules the stomach and breasts. Like the Taurians, the Cancerians crave food. They treat a good meal as a replacement for love. Cancerians are also prone to water retention. The first symptom of a problem is a rebounding and your sensitive stomach tells you. Make sure Cancerians resist by swimming to stay fit.

LEO (July 23 - August 22)

The back and heart are linked with Leos, and the sign tends to suffer from back complaints. Leos are highly active and they don't always put their health first. They're too busy trying to get the attention of others to worry about health problems. Any athletic form of self-expression such as dancing, or swimming, jogging or aerobics will help keep heart and back problems at bay.

VIRGO (August 23 - Sept. 22)

Plucky fussy Virgos are linked to the intestines and liver. Their highly critical minds like to create a sense of order and they resolve to their becoming terrible nervous. Stomachaches, indigestion and heartburn are all ailments that can cause Virgos to be depressed. The first symptom of a problem is a rebounding and your sensitive stomach tells you. Make sure Cancerians resist by swimming to stay fit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 - Oct. 23)

The sign of the scales rules the two kidneys. Librans are always attempting to balance their lives, weighing up each one decision. This can lead to anxiety and stress. They must turn to food and drink as a means of escaping decision making. But Librans are very in tune with a high metabolism. Exercises that require balancing the mind and body such as yoga may help them to maintain harmony.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21)

Scorpions are one of the strongest signs of the zodiac and are associated with the love organs. Their intensity on relationships can cause them to have problems with their sex lives. Scorpios are prone to the problem of sexual frustration and a build-up of toxins in the body. As the sensitive sign, they can also be extremely

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21)

Sizing great sports lovers, Sagittarians are not normally associated with health problems. Traditional astrology links this sign with hips, legs and the liver. Sagittarians do nothing exclusively including eating and drinking. Their boundless energy can also swing the opposite way. They don't feel things are going well, spreading energy evenly rather than releasing it to sports, health and games will surround them.

Those born under the sign of the bow need to spend a great deal of

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan 19)

Because they can be so rigid and restrained, Capricorns are identified with skin, bones and knees. Cool, calm and striving, they can spend long periods at work with little regard for their health. Capricorns are cautious, not only as a means to an end. They will excel by treading carefully with the other challenge they view their ca-

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18)

With the go Aquarians need to make sure they don't accidentally sprain an ankle or pull a hamstring. This sign is linked with the lower limbs and they must be careful when exercising. New age therapies, such as crystals, herbs and massages, will go getting Aquarians. They are also idealistic, usually more concerned with the world's health than their own. A little exercise can do them a world of good. Water bearers thrive on quark, nutritious snacks rather than drawn out meals.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20)

Pisceans can be so emotional that they are drawn to any means of escape. The water sign Pisceans are known for their drinking or drug problems. This sign finds it difficult to accept reality. Feet and toes are associated with the sensitive sign. Reflexology, all forms of massage and

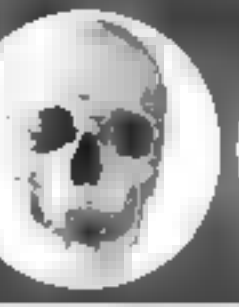
BIZARRE FORM OF RUSSIAN ROULETTE SWEEPING EUROPE

SUICIDE POOL



Shoot the wrong ball — & you blow up!

By JASON MILSTEAD

DARMSTADT, Germany — Thrill-seekers are playing a deadly version of pool — in which one ball is rigged to explode and blow a player to smithereens!

At least 42 people have been killed taking shots in the sicko game called Russian Roulette Pool since Weekly World News first reported the story three years ago. Players who are not shooting hide behind a protective wall.

"It's usually played in secret, underground locations," Police Detective Burkhard Hunsbuhl reported. "We have been able to confirm 42 deaths. But the actual total may be many times greater."

Cops have confiscated nine sets of specially-designed balls used in the game. They discovered that one ball in each set had a timer and that was activated the first time the ball was hit.

After the timer expired, a device inside the ball would explode the next time the ball was struck. Players never know which ball will explode or how long the timer is set for.

"Apparently people who play the game enjoy the thrill of not knowing when the explosion will occur," Det. Hunsbuhl said. "They play a normal game of straight pool — except for the constant threat of death hanging over them."

A former player said he decided to drop out after he saw two of his friends killed.

"We all became obsessed with the game," Karl Vermuth told cops. "I guess we thought our luck would run out someday, but we still paid hundreds of dollars to play."

Not every game would have an explosive ball, he explained. "The timer on the ball might not explode for a couple of games," he said.

"But the longer you have to wait, the greater the tension."

Germany and parts of Russia sport may soon be handed over to the U.S. as enforcers have very symptoms of depression."

Concerned officials in both countries have already issued alerts about the deadly game.

They have already seized one shipment of the balls destined for the U.S. illegally.

"We are looking closely into several reports that Russian Roulette Pool rings are currently being set up in both New York and Los Angeles," one concerned U. S. official said.

"We want to be able to stop the game before it gets a foothold and gains any popularity in our country.

"There is a large segment of our society that needs to be

New Year's resolutions make you insane!

Making New Year's resolutions is terrible for your mental health, new research shows!

Writing a list of goals for the New Year creates stress, frustration and depression when you don't live up to them within a few weeks, according to psychologists at the Mental Health Center in Sydney, Australia.

"Making resolutions is just about guaranteed to plunge a person into a deep depression," says researcher Archibald Farmers, who studied over 1,200 resolution writers for an article in a scientific journal.

"We found that 73 percent of people who made resolutions suffered from loss of appetite or other symptoms of depression."

Good old days? 1 in 3 brides was pregnant 200 years ago!

By JUNE SAWYER

Couples romancing 200 years ago weren't nearly as restricted as people think. They often met up alone with one another late at night, necked just like young people today — and nearly one in every three brides was pregnant!

These and other fascinating facts have been uncovered by Ellen Rothman, who read love letters and diaries of 300 couples for her book Hands and Hearts: a History of Courtship in America.

"Young couples during the Revolutionary War period were able to spend a lot of time alone together," said Rothman. "They would walk home from church or the village school and their parents would let them sit up in the parlor at night after everyone else had gone to bed.

"These young people were using their time alone together not only to develop relationships which were emotionally intimate, but also sexually intimate."

In fact, during the 1760s and 1770s, nearly one in every three New England brides was pregnant on her wedding day, Rothman reported.

Surprisingly, to the old days generally a was the woman who "courted" about setting the pre-marital wedding date, Rothman said.

"Men were very eager to marry, but the women dragged their feet, procrastinating until the last possible date.

"From the 1750s to the 1830s, diaries and correspondence are full of women who 'trembled' at the approach of their wedding day, who were 'anxious,' 'maryfaid' and 'fretful' as the day drew near," she said.

During the Civil War period, parties, sleigh rides and dances were all popular group activities, but lovers were still able to be alone — and often. "People expected that courtship be physical and there was a lot of hugging and kissing going on."

And couples picked their own mates, she added. "Parents who interfered were considered meddlesome."

Just like today, men during the 1800s would promise women the sun, the moon and the stars to get them to marry, she said.

"Men would try very hard to persuade the women they loved that they would be good husbands, friends and lovers," Rothman said.

During the early 1900s, diversions such as movies and cars took courting couples out of the home more often.

"They were going to Wild West shows, nickelodeons and cabarets," said Rothman. "They now had access to cars and could really get off alone."

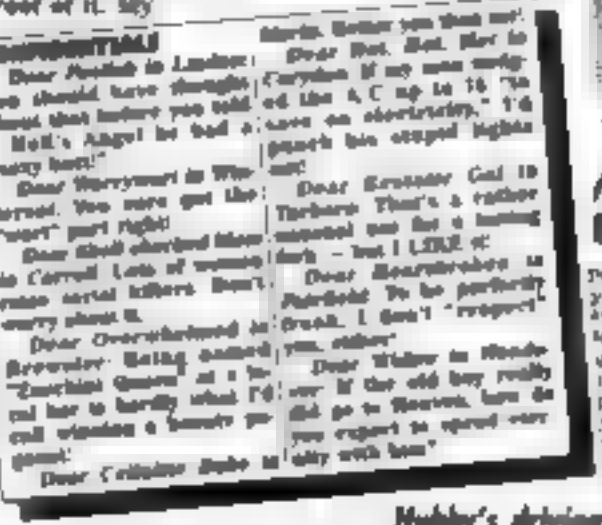
Witchy wife ruined my life with evil 'impotence spell!'

MARK in Dalhart

Dear Dotti: I knew my wife dabbled in the occult and fancied herself a witch when I married her two years ago but nothing could have prepared me for what has happened since. It seems that our sex drives never quite matched up — I like my lovin' daily and she's the once-a-month type — and we constantly squabbled over it. She finally got fed up and cast a spell to make me impotent. I don't know if you believe in witches and spells but they're for real — and I'm the living proof of it. My sex drive is gone and I couldn't make love even if I wanted to because my "equipment" doesn't work. I've begged Mary Beth to reverse the spell but so far, she's not cooperating. What am I going to do? — Mark in Dalhart

Dear Mark: First you say your wife is a seductive spell casting witch and then you ask ME to help you plot against her! Get with the program, bud! Avoid if here NO desire to be frigid at the tender age of 31!



CONFIDENTIAL!

Dear Pissed in Dalmar: You should have thought about that before you told about that before you told a Hell's Angel he had a "very hot!"

Dear Worrywart in Wheatland: You were got the "wart" part right!

Dear Short-changed Man in Carroll Lots of women raise aerial killers. Don't worry about it.

Dear Overwhelmed in Brewster: Being named "Zucchini Queen" at a harvest festival would hardly what I'd call winning a beauty pageant!

Dear Widow in Hondo: Even if the old boy really did go to Heaven, how do you expect to spend eternity with him?

Dear Confused Duke in Hamlin: Better you than me!

Dear Hot Rod in Corydon: If my sex only ran as A C up to 11 "on the old thermostat," I'd have an electrician to punch his stupid lights out!

Dear Exasperated Gal in Tarkers Thet's a rather unusual gal for a normal dork — but I LIKE it!

Dear Heartbroken in Fairfield: To be perfectly frank, I don't "respect" drunk, I don't "respect" you, either!

Dear Widow in Hondo: Even if the old boy really did go to Heaven, how do you expect to spend eternity with him?

I'm a big fat pig — and PROUD of it

WANDA in Custer

Dear Dotti: I stand 5 feet 7 and weigh 237 pounds. That might seem on the heavy side to you — and it is. But unlike other women, I LOVE being chubby. And whether you believe it or not, I have my pick of men who think I'm just about the nicest thing ever.

I don't have a question. I just wanted all your readers to know that you don't have to look like a supermodel to be happy! — Wanda in Custer

To make matters worse he reads them while my husband and I are at work but because he's forgetful, leaves them lying around the coffee table books. Need less to say, this is embarrassing when our friends drop by unexpectedly. I have asked Dad to keep them under wraps because he's senile. What am I going to do?" — Elizabeth in Kaysville noted researcher has made an even more stunning discovery predictions were etched into the cedar container in which the Grail was found - and some experts believe they were etched there by Jesus Christ Himself!

INGTON — Three years ago, archaeologist Dr. e rocked the world when he announced that the oly Grail had been found.

The Grail — the cup from which Jesus drank during the Last Supper — had been sought for nearly 2,000 years prior to 1956 when it surfaced in three ancient ruins near Jerusalem.

The wooden box that held it was treated with a special lacquer to preserve it. But the finding of the Grail itself was so exciting that no one thought of doing a detailed analysis of its [illegible] until a month when a member of Dr. Shanks's staff started scraping layers of dust and soil from the lid's surface. There in Aramaic — the language Jesus spoke — were seven chilling prophecies. Three have already come true. Four loom ahead.

Graphologists who have seen the writing on the inside of the lid of the ancient box disagree about whether it was etched by Jesus. But Dr. Shanks, a world renowned Christian historian, believes that He wrote the predictions just hours before His arrest and subsequent crucifixion.

New Testament accounts of the Last Supper reveal, at length, that Jesus was deeply concerned with spreading His message. He knew His time was limited and He knew the disciples would not be able to remember everything He said.

"So it appears that when they finished eating, He took the Grail with Him to the cedar box to the Garden of Gethsemane — where he was arrested.

Maria Barberili

"The Bible tells us that the disciples their orders failed by [illegible] when he wanted to speak to them. This is no doubt when He wrote the amazing prophecies." Graphologist Maria Barberili compared the writing on the lid to a signature known to be that of Jesus on a Temple roster found in Israel back in 1958.

She is convinced that both writings were done by the same hand.

Others say there is too little evidence to conclusively confirm that these predictions were written by Christ or dictated to a disciple, the ideas are certainly His," says Dr. Shanks.

Christ, right, [illegible] Last Supper, [illegible]

. . . and here they are:

Here, translated into modern English, and examined exclusively by Weekly World News, are the seven Holy Grail Prophecies, written by Jesus Christ on the lid of the cedar box:

1 Though I die in the flesh, my words shall live forever, for my words are the words of God. The day will come when a man of God will speak some of the Scriptures of Heaven and be heard by all people in the world at the same time. Many will be saved.

(NOTE: This is very possible. With TV satellites and [illegible] it's entirely possible that a talk by an evangelist of the stature of [illegible] and Billy Graham could be seen live by everyone on Earth.)

2 Man will seize the power of lightning and use it to turn night into day. The world's cities will be driven by its force.

(NOTE: Jesus predicts electricity — 1800 years before its discovery!)

3 In one hundred days, the earthquake will [illegible] shake the land of Judea. Cities will be destroyed and hundreds of thousands will die in those cities.

But hundreds of millions more will see and hear the flaming voices of the evil ones who seek to destroy God that they may live forever.

(NOTE: Seismologists tell us that there are indeed hundreds of active faults on Earth that, in the "City of Angels" [Los Angeles], are likely shaken and doomed to [illegible] here in Los Angeles.)

4 In the final days, when man will see that his ways are evil, he will change them from what he has done and return to Me.

(NOTE: This shocking prediction must have rocked the [illegible] to know that proof is [illegible] after Christ's death. The [illegible] was changed [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].)

How to keep your job . . . when your co-workers are getting the ax

The economy is in a tailspin and people are getting fired right and left — but you can hold on to your job by following this expert advice:

By KELLY [redacted] / [redacted] News

When the heat's on, you've got to look out for ol' No. 1!

● Be willing to take on extra work. "Tell your boss, 'Look, I know these are tough times. But I want you to know you can count on me 100 percent. Anytime you need something, ask me. I'll do it, even if it means working over the weekend," said Robert Half, founder of the world's largest recruiting firm.

"Remember the old adage: When the going gets tough, the tough get going. Don't forget — it isn't the good producers who are let off first."

● Come in a little early and leave a little late. "It shows that you're there, that you can be counted on — and that you're a hard worker."

● Learn more about your company and the work that needs to be done. "If a company wants fewer people do many jobs. So the more you know, the better your chances of being kept on," said Half. "Ask questions. Go to school and learn how to use a computer. Read up on your industry."

● Be polite and cooperative. Bosses don't like workers who give them a hard time. Follow common courtesies — greet co-workers with a "good morning" and say "hello" when you pass people in the hall.

"You might not think it makes much, but remember this: It's very hard to fire someone you like. It's much easier to get rid of people you don't like," said Half.

● Toot your own horn. Be visible. Don't just sit at your desk with your nose to the grindstone. Point out your achievements.

"Don't be a show-off or blow hard. Nobody likes that type," Half cautioned. "But the next time some job comes up, you can say, 'Ah, you remember the 'Love I did that?' This is similar, isn't it?'"

● Don't [redacted] than anyone else. You can learn an awful lot by listening to the rumor mill.

● Take pride in your appearance. "Your hands, skin and hair are a giveaway about your sense of pride," said Mitchell. "Always have well-manicured nails, clean skin and a neat hairstyle."

● Wear proper clothing. "Women shouldn't wear hemlines that are too high or necklines that are too low. Men should dress neatly, but not out of sync with the kind of work they do," said Mary Means Mitchell, who conducts seminars on proper behavior in the workplace.

[redacted] chops wife's foot so she couldn't run away from him!

LONDON — A man who savagely hacked off his wife's foot "to stop her from running away" and then chopped off her head to keep her quiet has been sentenced to life in prison.

Bank executive Aubrey Bateman, 40, waited until a couple of guests outside his home and surprised his wife Alvera as she attempted to leave. He attacked her with a meat cleaver and an axe, severing her left foot at the ankle. Bateman then dragged the body into the bedroom and hacked off the head.

Bateman told police he killed his wife because she was "a bad mother" who was "unfaithful." He said he had to kill her to keep her from running away with their children.

Bateman's lawyer argued that his client was insane at the time of the killings, but the jury found him guilty of murder. He was sentenced to life in prison with no chance of parole for 25 years.

Bateman's children, who were not harmed in the attack, are now living with their maternal grandparents.

DRUNK DRIVING TEEN MUST CARRY PHOTOS OF PEOPLE HE KILLED!

LEST HE FORGET: Convicted drunk driver Michael Hubacek, 19, will be constantly reminded of the people he killed for the next ten years

. . . and put flowers on their graves for the next decade

HOUSTON, Texas — Drunk driving teen Michael Hubacek has been ordered to stay in close touch with the two people who died when his speeding car slammed into their van last year.

He will have to carry photographs of Victoria Richard, 24, and Magdalena Dean, 20, in his wallet for 10 years and place flowers on their graves on their birthdays each year for the next decade.

Under terms of a shock probation sentence handed down by State District Judge Ted Poe the 19-year-old also must send $10 a week to a memorial fund in the names of the two victims.

And he will have to stand outside a bar carrying a sign that reads, "I killed two people while driving drunk down Westheimer."

He also will have to erect a cross and a Star of David at the accident site near Grenner and maintain the symbols and the surrounding area for 10 years.

Hubacek was a senior at Memorial High School here when his speeding car slammed into a van driven by Davis. The accident killed Davis and Mrs. Dean and badly injured Davis' wife Ann.

The teenager pleaded no contest to intoxicated manslaughter charges and served six months in jail.

Under terms of his probation, Hubacek also must refrain from driving for 10 years, attend [illegible] and observe autopsies of a person killed in a drunk driving accident.

The amazing dietary supplement — chromium picolinate — also reduces cholesterol levels, wards off obesity, lowers the incidence of diabetes and improves overall health, according to biochemist Dr. Gary Evans.

"It's pretty fantastic," Dr. Evans told Weekly World News. "It's inexpensive and it's widely available in health food stores.

"Even rats within 4 years of age. It increases the response of the body to insulin and insulin affects many areas. It increases the aging processes that lead to the breakdown of health, and as far as we know it is safe to take even large amounts of it."

Dr. Evans says he stumbled on the effects of chromium picolinate after his studies of human diabetes revealed chromium picolinate lowered levels of glucose and fat in the blood.

"We found that the rats with chromium supplements lived longer and healthier lives than rats who reported that rats fed a diet-promoting, low-calorie diet had lowered levels of glucose and glycated hemoglobin as well.

"The rats lived about a third longer than rats that were fed a normal diet.

"We thought we would try to do that, too — not with a reduced-calorie diet but with chromium picolinate, a special form of chromium that is more easily absorbed by the body," said Dr. Evans

Do you have: [illegible] memory [illegible] Recurring dreams?

YOU MAY HAVE BEEN ABDUCTED BY ALIENS & don't even know it!

UFO EXPERTS say many people don't realize they've been abducted by space aliens.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN TELL:

By JENNIFER BROOKES
[illegible]

Space aliens often erase the memories of people they abduct. But you can still determine if you've been taken aboard a starship or examined by extraterrestrials with tips from two of the world's leading experts.

All you have to do is check for the telltale signs of alien abduction, including complete memory loss, sudden illness, unusual dreams, missing hair, bruises or strange marks on your body.

These symptoms, almost certainly indicate that you've been abducted by space aliens.

"Many people have been abducted by space aliens but can't remember anything about their abductions," said Dr. Brad Sparger, author of the best-selling book, The UFO Detective.

UFO abductees often find they have blank spots in their memories. In some cases, it is simply a tantalizing sensation that there is something they are trying to remember but can't recall.

Another expert said "abductees frequently have recurring dreams or daytime visions about alien beings, spacecraft or extraterrestrial realms."

They often disappear unexplained wounds or scars. Or they mysteriously begin to suffer from physical problems.

According to Dr. Sparger, the warning signs of alien abduction are:

■ The mysterious onset of illness, including insomnia, loss of appetite, nausea, headaches, a rash or fatigue.

■ The nagging sensation of having "lost" a period of time, or of being "in a trance" when you suddenly realize you're driving your car or standing and wondering how you got there.

■ Recurring dreams. Some even have images, sounds, extraterrestrial sounds or landscapes and spaceships.

■ Recurring daytime images, sounds or flashes of light.

■ Unexplained bruises, scars or marks on your body.

■ Missing hair. Dr. Sparger explains, "Aliens sometimes shave off your hair to implant a device in your head."

■ Unexplained nosebleeds.

■ Sudden illness, including cancer. Dr. Sparger explains, "Aliens sometimes implant cancer cells in your body to study your reaction."

■ Unexplained pregnancy. Dr. Sparger explains, "Aliens sometimes implant a fetus in your body to study your reaction."

Dr. Sparger advises you to look at your phone book and contact the UFO organization nearest you.

5 INSTANT WAYS TO ELIMINATE STRESS!

If your New Year's resolutions include eliminating stress from your life, experts recommend five sure-fire methods to help you do it.

"Anyone can learn to do these and our clinical research shows they really work," says psychiatrist Dr. David E. Gross.

"The whole idea is to provide safe, simple and healthy ways of letting off steam on the spot, anytime during the day."

Here are Dr. Gross' five best ways to beat stress in 1998:

1 BEND A PENCIL. Place a pencil between the palms of your hands and roll it back and forth vigorously.

"Try not to think about the problems causing your stress. Just concentrate on the pencil," said Dr. Gross.

Many people report they can actually feel the stress slipping away as they roll the pencil, he added.

2 MAKE UP YOUR OWN "CUSS" WORDS AND START "SWEARING." Pick nonsense words that have no real meaning and when the stress builds up, find a private spot, "throw your head back and let 'er rip," he said. "You might find that the silliness of your nonsense swear words actually causes you to burst into laughter. And laughter puts out stress the way water puts out fire."

3 SMILE. "You can, while on a new stress-free mood quick as a wink. Just pick a happy tune, perhaps up and whistle!"

4 SCREAM SILENTLY. "Go through all the motions of a real scream — scrunch up your face, take a deep breath, make the muscles in your throat tight, throw your head back and scream — but silently," said Dr Gross.

5 SMASH ICE CUBES. Take a bowl of ice cubes outside and — one at a time — throw them down on a rock or concrete.

"They break beautifully, the pieces shattering out in all directions, and you can feel your stress connecting with the pieces of ice."

Facts & myths about getting a bank loan!

Much of what people believe about getting a loan is simple myth — and what you don't know about borrowing can hurt your chances of getting the money you need.

Here, banking experts separate fact from fiction:

MYTH: You must have been at your job a long time to qualify for a loan.

FACT: "Job hoppers do make lenders nervous but a lender will look favorably on a recent advancement, even if you've changed jobs within the past six months," said bank officer Jim Kendall.

MYTH: Your salary is the main factor determining whether you get a loan.

FACT: "A lending officer looks for the three C's — capacity to repay, character and credit worthiness," said banker Jack Shapman.

"Your ability to repay a loan involves not just your salary but also your spouse's salary, your credit history and the amount of money you owe."

MYTH: Your best chance of getting a loan is from the institution where you have a savings account.

FACT: "Only if you're borrowing against that account," Kendall said.

MYTH: Both the very old and very young have no chance at getting a loan.

FACT: "They have as much chance as anyone else," Shapman said. "A loan application cannot be rejected on grounds of age."

MYTH: If one lender turns you down, every other lender will do the same.

FACT: "If one institution turns you down, it doesn't mean you're out of luck," Kendall said.

"A lender can refuse your loan application because he might not make the sort of loan you requested or he knew there's something incorrect on your credit bureau file.

"You have every right to know why your loan was refused — and you should ask."

You can then act to correct any errors in your credit file.

MYTH: If you default on a loan, the lender will garnishee your wages or property.

FACT: "The last thing lenders want is to foreclose on a loan," Shapman said. "Lending institutions are more likely to let you skip payments

HOW WORKING COUPLES CAN AVOID FIGHTS OVER MONEY!

Two-income couples fight more, not less, over money — but you can avoid conflict in 1998 by following simple tips from an expert.

"People expect single-income couples to have more money squabbles because they don't have as much money as two paychecks coming in, but we now know that's wrong," says Napoleon Hare. Here are some common conflicts two income couples will face in 1998 and how to combat them:

■ Who's the boss?

While traditionally the family breadwinner makes many decisions unconsidered, there is a growing trend toward sharing decision-making power. For example, she may be best at shopping for appliances, but he may know more about getting the car fixed.

■ Whose money is this, anyway?

Wives have a tendency to feel the husband's income belongs to both spouses, while her income is hers alone. Therefore, says Hare, both spouses must be willing to pool their money equally.

■ Let's not talk about money.

This is a fatal mistake many couples make — they avoid resolving differences on how their money should be handled and taking over the finances. The solution is to learn more — take courses and read books and magazines that explain economics.

GUTLESS WONDER

By BEATRICE DEXTER World-Herald Staff

OMAHA, Neb. — Leonard Plomeck was horribly injured in an auto wreck, but the lucky man survived and is doing well — in spite of the fact that he has no intestines!

The 35-year-old gutless wonder can eat only soup and watery cereal, but still manages to live a normal life. Doctors say they can't explain how he does it.

Nebraska man loses all his intestines in a car wreck — but he's healthy as a horse!

DOCTORS DON'T KNOW HOW HE STAYS ALIVE!

"They say it's impossible for someone to live without large and small intestines to process food," says Plomeck, an electrician who is an energetic cyclist and jogger.

"But I can do almost anything I could do before the accident.

"In fact, in some ways I think I feel better than I did before. I used to have a lot of gas, luckily but now I'm never bothered by it. I figure maybe I didn't need all those intestines."

Plomeck had never been sick a day in his life before he suffered his grievous injuries in June 1967. The 18-year-old was driving an auto when it struck a sharp turn, crashing into trees, brush and fencing at high speed.

In the horrifying accident, Plomeck's car was pierced by three fence posts, one of which penetrated the man's abdomen and pulverized his upper and lower intestines. Plomeck was rushed to a hospital and directly into emergency surgery, where doctors were forced to remove his mangled guts altogether.

"The doctors didn't think I would make it, so they were only going for the long term. They hooked me up to feeding machines, but they figured I'd eventually die. There was no way for any body to process nutrients."

Incredibly, Plomeck not only survived his injuries, but gradually recovered completely. In spite of the fact that he had a huge chunk of his digestive tract he can eat enough simple foods to keep his body

The lucky survivor eats exclusively liquid foods. Pureed soups, cooked cereal, blended meat, eggs and milk products are the only foods he can digest. Solid foods are passed undigested through his system.

"I can't eat anything solid because it would pass right through me," Plomeck said. "But I don't even think about that.

"As long as I feel good, I am not going to worry about what may or may not happen sometime in the future.

"I figure I'm really lucky to be alive — and I'm very thankful for that."

Plomeck is able to maintain a normal level of physical activity and says he feels as good as he ever did.

"I'm not going to worry about my intestines," Plomeck said. "But I don't even think about that.

"As long as I feel good, I am not going to worry about what may or may not happen sometime in the future.

"I figure I'm really lucky to be alive — and I'm very thankful for that."

Headaches can warn if you're about to die!

Headache pain strikes 80 million Americans — and it may indicate a more serious illness than you think, experts say.

Here are the headache danger signals that could suggest a serious condition such as a brain tumor, meningitis or other problems that require medical attention:

■ Headaches that never persistently in childhood or begin to appear after the age of 50 or which headaches may signal a brain tumor.

■ If you've never had one headache (or the very first one you could be suffering from a brain tumor, an aneurysm — a bulging blood vessel in the brain — or an inflammation of the blood vessels which can lead to blindness.

■ Headaches that rapidly increase in frequency and intensity after they first appear. These could be an early sign of a brain tumor or an aneurysm.

■ Headaches accompanied by dizziness, double vision or loss of sensation. These headaches can be caused by an interior disorder, such as a brain tumor or aneurysm and could be a forerunner of a stroke.

■ Headaches that make you feel "sick" or "not right." Most headache sufferers who report feeling "sick" are nauseous, have an upset stomach or lose their appetites.

People who feel "not right" are just not functioning right mentally. They could be suffering from a memory loss or have trouble calculating or getting a word out.

Any headache of this type can be a sign of organic disease.

Midget bandit escapes from jail — and he's terrorizing Mexico again!

By KEVIN CREID
Weekly World News

ACAPULCO, Mexico — The midget desperado who robbed at least nine banks back in 1994 has escaped from prison and resumed his life of crime!

Police say Eduardo Nunez, 34, is up to his old tricks, robbing banks in the Acapulco area, using the same M.O. as before: Wearing a huge sombrero to hide his face, he slips past bank security by posing as an innocent little boy playing cowboy.

In his heyday, Nunez was known as "El Nino Peligroso" — the dangerous child. Walking into banks dressed in cowboy clothes and riding a stick horse, he would catch employees off-guard by suddenly whipping off his sombrero and whistling real guns.

After filling his overalls but with bills, Nunez always did his sly victory dance. In every case, he would set the cash-filled hat on the floor, sing some of "The Mexican Hat Dance" and run joyously around the customers a few times before leaving the bank, laughing wildly.

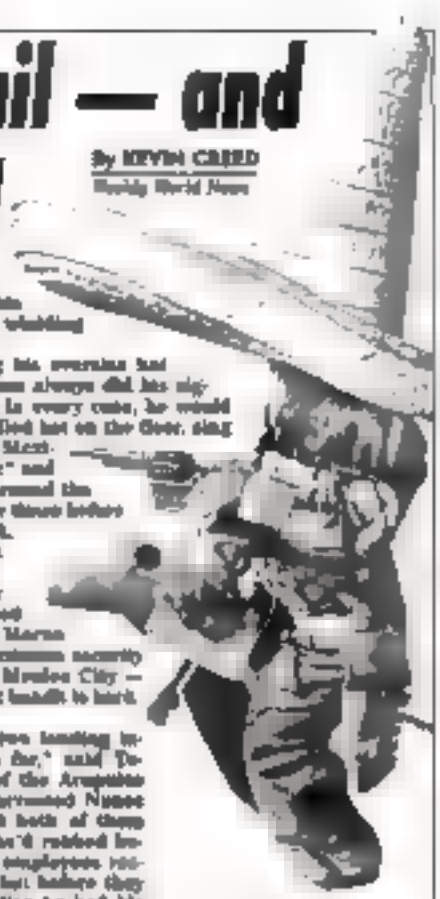
Now, almost four years after being sentenced to 11 years at Matias Prison — a maximum security facility near Mexico City — the wily 4-foot bandit is back in action.

"He's his own leading inhabitant on the," said Tomas Duran of the Acapulco Police, who arrested Nunez in 1994, "and both of them were banks he'd robbed before. Several employees recognized him but believe they would call police he had his guns in their faces."

Psychiatrist Dr. Joaquin Cordoba, whose psychological profile helped nab Nunez last time says: "He doesn't do it for the money. He feels inadequate about his size and gets satisfaction by ridiculing the normal-size people he steals from. That's why he does the dance. Humiliation is his way of saying 'I may be little but I'm taking your money and laughing at you.'"

But Inspector Duran says he doesn't expect Nunez to be at large for long.

"Every bank in Acapulco has his photo and profile. He'll slip up soon and we'll have him back behind bars."



TINY BANDIT is back in action. Eduardo Nunez pretends he's a child to fool security — then pulls out real guns and fills his hat with money.

THE GHOST OF ELVIS GOT ME OFF DRUGS!

DRUG-FREE: Conrad Fehrenbacher was addicted to painkillers and appears healthy since Elvis' ghost turned his life around.

By LISA McBAIRD

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — Thousands of young Americans are being saved from addiction to life-destroying drugs — by the ghost of Elvis Presley!

That's the contention of Dr. Andrew Demaitreau, a sociologist who says the spirit of the dead rock and roll star has appeared to many troubled teenage boys and girls and successfully weaned them away from crack, heroin, cocaine and other drugs. He says the bizarre breakthrough in the war on drugs began late last year and sightings of Elvis are becoming more and more frequent.

"The ghost of The King usually appears when the problem is worst and he spirit often comes back again and again — he has an image that he [illegible] a drug treatment clinic exposing it for what it is."

Dr. Demaitreau reports that Elvis is doing more than his share.

"The ghost appears primarily to young people who are fond of Elvis Presley's music.

Dr. Andrew Demaitreau has confirmed the Elvis sightings.

The King's spirit is roaming America, saving thousands of troubled youngsters, says expert

"Then he stopped playing and sat down next to me and in part to talk about how much it was to [illegible] drugs.

"He said, 'I know — drugs killed me. I don't want that to happen to you.'"

Conrad says the encounter was mind-blowing to him and changed his life. The next day he awoke with the strong desire to stop drugs — and has never [illegible] again.

Today the young student is working as a part-time drug counselor, spreading Elvis' message among young people and telling them about his love for his fans and his encounters with The King.

"We think his spirit feels the need to wipe out the [illegible] of his own drug-induced death.

White House rocked by secret prediction from financial experts

World economic collapse will come in April . . .

WASHINGTON — The world economy is on the verge of a total collapse that will leave banks in total ruin, currency worthless — and millions of homeless and starving people in the streets.

But even more frightening is the massive panic that is beginning even now — the panic that will soon cause formerly law-abiding citizens to turn on one another in a violent, desperate scramble for food and other necessities!

By KEVIN CREID
Weekly World News

Already, millions are stockpiling food, medicine, clothing and even water in an attempt to survive the coming nightmare that will strike with full force this coming April.

This terrifying disclosure comes from a concerned group of the world's top economists who say they're declaring only what all the world's governments have been trying to cover up.

"This crisis will make the Great Depression of the 1930s look mild by comparison," said noted economist and top financial expert Thomas VanDurman.

VanDurman is one of three American members of an international panel of experts who have been meeting in secret to study possible solutions to the problem.

"The Great Depression was one of the darkest periods in American history. Banks closed, the market collapsed and once-wealthy people were left suddenly penniless.

"But the coming disaster — that has already begun to show itself in subtle ways — will completely cripple every nation in the world. Overnight, folding money will become worthless pieces of paper, banks will shut down and at least a billion people will be without food and shelter.

"But the worst aspect of all is the panic that will soon grip the entire world. That panic is what scares me more than anything else."

VanDurman said that the causes of the new depression are too complex for most layman to grasp. But it has its roots in the economic imbalance between nations on the international market.

"The real peril is that the needs have been known and millions of informed people know it.

"In Switzerland, where five banks have already gone bankrupt over the past three months, people have begun converging on supermarkets,

. . . and millions are already stockpiling food, medicine, clothing — even WATER!

other necessities. There has been rioting in Bern and Geneva.

"The panic has spread to the neighboring European countries of France, Italy, Austria and Germany. And some people in the United States have already begun taking refuge in well stocked mountain cabins."

Dot VanDorman says we are only seeing the tip of the iceberg.

"Right now, the ones who are aware of what's going on are going out of their world will feel the sting of poverty.

"Soon, people will be standing for another over crusts of bread.

"President Clinton knows about this problem. The White House has been evaded by the news as have the governments of every nation in the world. But they refuse to inform the public, saying against hope that something can be done in time.

"I pray we can find a way

Rain Forest Wonder Herb Now Available in the United States Without a Prescription!

THIS JUNGLE PILL WILL CHANGE YOUR LIFE!

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah — What is considered by many to be one of the most powerful herbs on the planet is now available in the United States without a prescription and costs just pennies a day. The rain forest herb Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only relied on by millions of true and grateful believers, it is guaranteed to change your life in a matter of hours, days or in truly stubborn situations, weeks, excited experts report.

Incredibly there's more. According to Dr. Donna Schauenberg, author of the important book, Herbs of the Amazon, Traditional and Common Uses, Una de Gato, which means "Cat's Claw" in Spanish, is a treasured and revered component of a folk tradition that has been tested and proven over a history of unfathomable and appalling hundreds of years.

"Rain forest herbs like Una de Gato clearly are among the purest and most powerful found in nature," declared Dr. Schauenberg. "They also are among the most thoroughly tested, having been used by the indigenous peoples of the Amazon for hundreds of years."

Dr. Schauenberg isn't the only expert singing the praises of Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) which is derived from the bark of a woody vine that grows abundantly in the Amazon rain forest.

The testimonials from ordinary people who have count themselves among a growing legion of "Cat's Claw believers" are full of praise as heartfelt and passionate that they often culminate in tearful expressions of pure joy.

E.F. of Pensacola, FL, flatly states: "Before I found Cat's Claw I was dead — DEAD! This herb gave me more than a miracle — it gave me back my life."

D.S. of Elba, AL is equally enthusiastic. He says: "The pain in my hip nearly crippled me for years. Just two weeks after I started Cat's Claw the pain is gone. I used up all the vials like a 94 year old."

D.G. of Statesboro, GA, goes even further than that. She says: "I had given up the years and Cat's Claw stopped them dead in their tracks. I went to bed last night and kept saying 'Thank you Lord for the Cat's Claw.' I am going on 80 jumping rope and doing exercise. Four years ago I was almost to the point I needed a walking cane or a walker."

Mind-boggling. There's more. L.P. of Albuquerque, NM, says: "Thanks to Donna Andreason and the Lord I found this wonderful rain forest herb. It has helped me back to life."

D.C. of Lake Worth, FL knows the power of Cat's Claw well. He says: "I take Cat's Claw every day like a vitamin tablet and no doctor visited the results of my recent physical which included a grueling, 24-function blood test, spectacular."

"I have energy to spare and feel stronger, sharper and more alert than I did as a kid of 30. It might sound like a joke, but I'm an average guy in proportion when I say that with Cat's Claw in my medicine chest, I am 100 per cent confident that I can't never be sick again. Cat's Claw is God's herb. There's not a doctor alive, not a medical technology available, that could make anything else that herb. Only God can make a miracle — and that's exactly what Cat's Claw is."

Breakthrough research in Europe, where doctors routinely prescribed herbs and herbal treatments to patients, is equally dramatic. After long and intensive study, an esteemed Austrian researcher identified several important alkaloids — active ingredients — found in the Cat's Claw herb. An extract is now being used as adjunctive therapy in the treatment of severe immune disorders.

It's no secret that a strong immune system enables the body to ward off or banish diseases and ailments of every description, even the most painful, debilitating and terrifying known to man.

Pure, powerful, premium Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is, in fact, available without a prescription in the United States. You are strongly advised, however, to purchase yours from a reliable, trusted source. Infinity Herbs has sold and shipped premium, money-back-guaranteed Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) to well over 50,000 satisfied customers the world over since 1985. And at just $12 per bottle of 100, 500mg capsules, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is a tremendous bargain. Please don't settle for cheap imposters or waste your hard-earned money on over-priced products costing $25 or $30 or more. Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is not only potent right. It is pure, powerful and potential. Not only that, Infinity's Una de Gato (Cat's Claw) is guaranteed to change your life — or your money back.

Bible expert's shocking claim...

SATAN IS GAY!

ROME — Homosexual activists can now add yet another historical figure to their roster: Satan! A leading biblical scholar says he has proof that the Prince of Darkness is gay!

By VINCENZO SARDI
Weekly World News

"A close examination of sacred scriptures leaves little doubt about Lucifer's sexual orientation," says Prof. Salvatore Puntilla, an expert in Bible history.

Prof. Puntilla, who presented his theory in a speech at a recent conference of theologians in Vatican City, laid out an impressive array of evidence supporting the startling notion.

1 A passage in the Dead Sea Scrolls states that Satan was cast out of Heaven because he "did seek to persuade another to join him in an abomination." Prof. Puntilla interprets this to mean that Lucifer — the most beautiful angel in Heaven — made a pass at a fellow angel and was punished.

2 Satan's temptation of Christ in the desert, recounted in Matthew 4:1-11, is a "classic gay seduction scene," according to the scholar. "Reading between the lines, it's easy to see that Satan is attempting to draw Jesus into the world of carnal pleasure. Phrases Lucifer uses, such as 'down and worship me,' were gay code words, often used by homosexuals of those times."

3 Watchmakers recording the confessions of devil-worshippers in the 15th and 16th Century cited detailed descriptions of Satan by his captured minions. "They said he had long eyelashes, a sly smile, was dressed like a dandy and smelled of lavender," says Prof. Puntilla. "Many of the men admitted that they had sexual relations with their 'lord and master.'"

4 While red is now regarded as the Devil's color up until medieval times most artistic depictions of Satan show his complexion as a ghastly pale green — closer to pink.

"The association of pink with homosexuality is universal, found in every culture around the world," observes Prof. Puntilla.

5 The eleven leaves traditionally spurned by Satan were not known at all, according to the earliest descriptions, but painted instead "hooters."

Such ideas "were a favorite accessory among homosexuals in Egypt and Israel in ancient times," notes the expert.

Gay activist Carla Tanzi supports Prof. Puntilla's views. "Acknowledging that a powerful 'macho' figure like Lucifer is gay should help to counter a lot of the stereotypes about homosexuality," he said.

But the suggestion that the Evil One is "light in his loafers" has outraged many religious conservatives, including top Vatican exorcist, Fr. Francisco Dellarteri, who insists the Devil is as straight as an arrow.

"I have found myself face-to-face with the Adversary countless times," he says.

"There's nothing effeminate about him."

SATAN AS A GUY: Most early paintings of Lucifer depict him as affectionately handsome.

Town uses model planes to fight birds!

SALIENT, France — After more than 40,000 starlings descended on this small French town, citizens fought back — using a fleet of remote-controlled model airplanes!

Turbulence caused as overpopulation in the area sent the starlings flocking into town in search of food. They virtually covered the city with their droppings. "It's a health hazard," said Mayor Jean-Claude Bonnet.

BODY BATTLE

Who's got the better body, a man or a woman?

The answer might surprise you. Doctors and physiologists say nature has given both sexes certain advantages — but ultimately, it's the little lady who would win a body battle between the sexes.

While the experts point out that men's and women's bodies are remarkably similar overall, women excel in flexibility, balance, muscle efficiency and, yes, even brain versatility. But guys have their strong points, too — muscle strength being one of their overwhelming advantages over the weaker sex.

Men are heavier, with more muscle so they're faster than women. But even in this area, women can compete. They know how to use their muscle power better, so pound for pound they're actually stronger.

With the proper training, women can do well against men in a variety of sports. For example, at 1988 Olympic swimming trials, Janet Evans beat the 400-meter world speed record set by Kurt Krits in 1986, outdoing him by two seconds.

As women's sports are taken more seriously, women are encouraged to work out — and they're closing the gap with the guys. Top women athletes can run circles around the average guy and give a well-trained male athlete a run for his money.

To find out how your body compares to the opposite sex, see the illustrations featured on these two pages.

Hair: Guys lose their hair with age, but women rarely do.

Senses: Males are four times more likely to suffer from dyslexia, and five times more likely to stutter. Women are rarely color-blind, but 10 percent of men are.

Strength: A man's stronger upper body makes it possible for him to halt twice as much weight as a woman. At the peak of condition, gals will only have 70 percent of the lower leg strength of men, 80 percent of both and hand muscle strength, and 80 percent of men's arm strength.

Organs: Men's greater size is reflected in their internal organs. Their larger hearts and greater lung capacity are an advantage.

Balance: Men's bodies are T-shaped, which means they're top heavy. Balancing is more difficult for them.

Sex: Give a man a little sex and he loses energy and aggression, one reason why coaches ban sex before athletic events. Women can have sex anytime they want.

Height: Guys are taller and have longer legs than women, so they can cover a greater

MUSCLE: Men have 40 percent more muscle than women.

And is

OF THE SEXES

WHO MAKES THE MOST OF WHAT THEY'VE GOT?

Taste: Gals taste food more intensely because they have more taste buds. That's one reason they have more trouble following a restrictive diet.

Brain: Guys predominantly use the right side of their brains. Women use both sides of their brains equally.

Balance: Women's wider hips give them a lower center of gravity, making their figures better balanced than men.

Flexibility: The female hormone relaxin helps make women more flexible than males.

Dexterity: Women are better at using their hands and they are more coordinated and have better control than men, meaning they get more out of their muscles than guys do.

Body Fat: Women's body fat can be an advantage: It makes them more buoyant. That's why in swimming, women expend 20 percent less energy than men. What's more, the extra fat makes it easy for women to keep hips and thighs high in the water, and their curvy bosoms reduce drag, making greater speed possible.

Strength: Women are the weaker sex, by 33 percent, but having children can strengthen them. Many noted female athletes have broken world records after having babies.

Thighs: Women's thighs may be smaller than men's, but for their size they're equally as strong.

Muscle: Women are more efficient at using their muscles, using less energy in their movements per pound of body weight. Gals take smaller steps when they walk, don't lift themselves as high off the ground and do not swing their
